

Better late than never. But, while I welcome the present born-again policy, I remain concerned about the intent behind it. There is more showmanship and political maneuvering in the present effort than depth of commitment. I know that General McCaffrey is not running for reelection. I believe that General McCaffrey is serious when he says he wants a bipartisan approach. I am less certain about the motives of others in the administration. I remain concerned that many of the Key advisers on policy are hostile to serious enforcement and interdiction efforts. I am concerned about the commitment of some of the advisers to the White House to keeping drugs illegal.

Nevertheless, I welcome the strategy and I hope that the administration will support the drug czar, unlike his predecessor. I hope that we will see more action. I hope that the action that we see focuses less on backdrops and photo ops, and more on results.

I yield the floor.
